

PIGS ON ELEPHANTS COST JUST $62.50

Some Other Interesting Information From the Expense Accounts.

There was once a king, so the minstrels sing.
Who a herd of elephant had, and a peasant poor who lived next door.
Who wanted an elephant bad, for the generous king did a foolish thing.
By giving that peasant one, for that reckless sun-of-a-gun.
For that elephant ate all night, and that elephant ate all day.
And what he would to furnish him food.
The cry was still, "more hay!"
And he tore his hair in wild despair
And pined his lachrymal glands and cursed his lot, that ere he got
An elephant on his hands.
Times have indeed changed since the old-fashioned DeWolfe Hopper carried through the opera "Wang," singing in his mad raptures to insure the above doleful ditty. Nowdays all that is necessary to cut down the living expenses of a flock of pachyderms is to include in a circus itinerary, towns where hay is plentiful, and leave it to the candidates.
Sixty-two dollars and fifty cents was the amount contributed to a little luncheon given to the elephants. Sparks circus recently, by four Democratic candidates in payment for the privilege of advertising their candidacy on four elephants in the parade, according to the expense accounts, contributed $21.50; Clarence Curry, $1. James W. Davis, $20 and W. E. Haney $20. Just why Ed Slack was indicted more than the rest is a mystery unless it was because his was on the largest of the herd, and he was charged for space.
A large number of algebraic symbols in which the letter "x" appears frequently, on the back of Slack's expense account is supposed to represent his estimate of the number of Republican votes he figures he has acquired by advertising on G. O. P. elephants.
Other interesting items are those covering the cost of photographs. Charles F. Baker, Republican candidate for sheriff, paying $1. Ed Slack and Thomas J. Koon $2.50.
C. C. Musgrave bought a vast quantity of "smokes" for $8.
W. E. Maple, candidate for sheriff, turned up to spending $21 for "auto" in theaters.
A coroner's glance at the expense accounts of William A. Israel and A. J. Martin would seem to indicate that these two candidates are the beneficiaries of the generosity of friends until it is seen that they have entered expenditures in the column intended for receipts.

Bill Blackbird Gets Impatient.

None of the birds of flowers or animals are allowed to leave Scrub-Up Land until they are as clean and bright as new pins.
That is why things appear one at a time in the Land-Where-Spring-is-Coming, for Rubadub, the fairyman in charge, makes each one wait his turn to be scrubbed and painted before leaving.

Nick and Nancy were busy these days painting up the birds, but for all they worked and made their fingers and brushes fly as fast as they could, Bill Blackbird was getting impatient—and jealous!

He was furious about Robin Redbreast getting out first, and nearly died of envy when Belinda Bluebird got her blouse waist dipped in orange dye, and a brand new blue jacket to go over it. Not that he cared about looks—not he—but he wanted to get out to get some bugs, and he couldn't go until he was finished.

When Mr. Crow got away—that was the limit! Bill could endure it no longer. So he decided to think up a plan that would hurry things up a bit. At last he hit on an idea that tickled him almost to death. "Chk! Chk! Chk!" he chattered creakily in his rusty wagon-wheel voice. "I'll fool them all yet. Just one peep at the Bird Book and I'll know exactly what to do."

Now Bill was smart, but he had a poor memory, and when a person intends to deceive people, he must be sure that his memory is in good working order. Of course he might have fooled Nick and Nancy, but the Magical Mushroom was a wise, old fairy, and you had to get up pretty early in the morning if you wanted to fool him.

Every Day is Bargain Day

At the Nu Wa
Self Serve Grocery

Every day is bargain day at the Nu Wa Grocery. Every price is a special price and a saving price. There is no such thing as cheap provisions these days and there cannot be under present economic conditions and from day to day we see prices rising on many staple articles. Flour continues to advance and we fear that it will yet cause an increase in the price of bread. Our patrons will remember that it was the Nu Wa (self serve) Grocery that brought the 15c loaf of bread down to 12c in Fairmont. The Nu Wa brought eggs below the fifty cent mark and have never sold an egg as high as fifty cents since the opening of the store six weeks ago. The Nu Wa can see its way very clear to offer you during the balance of this week fresh eggs at 45c a dozen.

The Nu Wa is selling a first class old fashioned lye hominy, as good as any hominy on the market selling for 15c, at 10c a can or 12 cans for $1.08. Is offering breakfast bacon at 33c and up and hams at 43 and 45c. So it will be found all along the line that you can save big money by buying your provisions from the Nu Wa store. It stands you in hand to compare those prices with prices you pay the credit and delivery stores, and do you not think that any merchant who is trying to cut down the cost of your living expenses is entitled to your support and patronage. The Nu Wa thinks so, and it is for this reason that the people are flocking to the Nu Wa store by the hundreds and carrying away the bargains offered. Every article is placed upon the shelf and plainly marked with a price ticket. All you have to do is put what you want in your basket if you bring one, or in a paper bag if you do not bring one, and if it is such an article that must be weighed the cashier in checking up your purchase weighs it for you. Remember when you are at the Nu Wa get what you want and the cashier will tell you the price if you are in doubt of the article has to be weighed.

What Bacterial Infection Means To Your Teeth

FIRST—Bacteria clinging to the surface of the tooth form a field for the germs to feed upon.

SECOND—These germs grow and multiply and before long work their way into the enamel of the teeth.

THIRD—After penetrating the enamel of the tooth it is only a short time until a dark spot appears and the tooth is undergoing destruction known as decay. CONSULT YOUR DENTIST.

FOURTH—This decay will continue and before long the teeth will become sensitive to sweet or cold. BY ALL MEANS CONSULT YOUR DENTIST.

FIFTH—If you continue to neglect the warning of a sensitive tooth it will only be a short time until you are compelled to visit a dentist.

What a Dentist Will Tell You

FIRST—If you had used your tooth brush regularly you probably would not have this trouble now.

SECOND—By the use of EODENE TOOTH PASTE you could have prevented bacterial infection of the teeth.

THIRD—After having your teeth attended to always use EODENE TOOTH PASTE. Eodene Tooth Paste contains neither pumice stone nor cuttle fish, both of which are injurious to the teeth. It contains certain chemicals which exert beneficial influence upon the surfaces of the teeth that are otherwise impossible to reach with the brush. Eodene Toon Paste contains carlsbad salt which removes tartar from the teeth.

PYORRHEA

Tartar and other deposits on the teeth will cause an irritation to the gums and before long you will develop Pyorrhea. In Pyorrhea the gums first become slightly irritated and bleed easily when disturbed. Later on the gums become swollen and boggy and bleed still more. Then the gums start to shrink from around the necks of the teeth and start to expose the root of the tooth. As the disease advances the gums discharge pus which in turn is swallowed and goes into the entire system of the individual which latter on undermines the health.

Don't You Know

By the use of EODENE TOOTH PASTE the gums will become hard and firm and you will soon notice the improvement in your mouth. Stop that decay. Decayed teeth are now unpardonable as Eodene Tooth Paste will retard decay, prevent decay and destroy the germs which start decay.

Every One Can Now Have Beautiful Teeth

Eodene Tooth Paste contains Sodium Parborate which when brought in contact with the sylvia of the teeth gives off an acent oxygen bleaching and whitening the teeth.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

If after using Eodene Tooth Paste you are not better satisfied with it than any tooth paste you have ever used then take it back to the druggist and he will gladly refund your money.
